Matt and Laurie sit down with Pastor Robert and Debbie Morris to explore the Seven Words of Christmas.

As you open this TBN partner update, like countless other individuals and families your thoughts are no doubt beginning to turn toward the Thanksgiving and holiday seasons before us. Regardless of any uncertainties we may have faced these past months, there is something about this time of year, rich in tradition and the warmth of special moments spent with family and friends, that fills our hearts with gratitude.

Of course, there is no shortage of blessings for which each of us can be thankful. Given the turmoil many are facing across the earth, the fact that we live in relative peace, along with an abundance for nearly every need, ought to make thanksgiving an intentional action item in our daily lives.

In case we need convincing, Scripture is filled with God's own thoughts about the importance of keeping gratefulness in our hearts and on our lips. For example, Psalm 95:2 commands us to "come before His presence with thanksgiving." Similarly, in 1 Thessalonians 5:18 Paul exhorts us to be thankful in every season and circumstance we find ourselves, "for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you."

And two of the best reasons ever for us to be thankful are found in 1 Chronicles 16:34: "Oh, give thanks to the Lord, for He is good! For His mercy endures forever." Could there be any better reason for us to give thanks to God than His goodness and mercy focused directly on each of us individually?

In Romans 5:6, the apostle Paul puts it this way: "... at just the right time, when we were still powerless, Christ died for the ungodly." God's mercy in action is the very foundation of the Christmas season we celebrate. In our stumbling, our weakness, our sin, God's goodness and mercy came down to us in the person of His only Son, Jesus.

Speaking of Christmas, our good friend, Pastor Robert Morris, has penned a special gift book, entitled Seven Words of Christmas, that beautifully develops seven powerful themes at the very foundation of the mercy God extends to us through Jesus.

Writes Pastor Robert: "Several years ago, when I began to study the 'Christmas story' as told in the opening chapters of Matthew and Luke, I discovered that God delivered seven key prophetic words around the birth of His Son.... Seven times God spoke through someone in connection with the birth of His beloved Son. Don't you think we should give an ear to those words? Don't you think we might find some wisdom, some encouragement, some comfort, or some direction in them?"

He continues: "Salvation, Favor, Blessed, Guidance, Joy, Redemption, and Peace. These are good words. Words that describe things that you would love to have a greater abundance of in your life and home. These are the Seven Words of Christmas."

"God's mercy in action is the very foundation of the Christmas season we celebrate."
