IMAGINE A CHURCH that builds affordable homes for foster families that need financial help. The City Church has done just that, building 22 homes and a community center for foster families as part of the church’s outreach to foster and adoptive children.

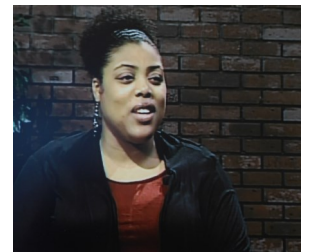

Cheryl Haskins, Executive Director of City Ministries (L), tells about The City Church’s social ministries outreach with Joy in Our Town host, Elizabeth Hamilton (right).

“One of the barriers to foster care is finances,” Cheryl said. “While some foster families own their own homes, some cannot afford the burden of housing a larger family. So City Church decided to build houses that foster parents can afford. The program has been extremely successful.”

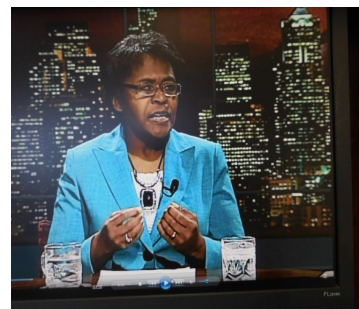

FIRST TIME MOMS are new to the whole idea of being pregnant and having a baby. They have so many questions. Yet for a variety of reasons, some new moms don’t have a mother of their own to talk with.

Racheda Hatchett, R.N., talked with Joy in Our Town host, Tanny Jackson, about how community health professionals can provide much needed help to girls who come from homeless or dysfunctional families.

“Pregnancy is a miracle,” she said. “New mothers need to know that God is with them. If you will reach out to Him, He will reach out to you. You don’t need to go through this alone.” she said.

BRENDA MILEWSKI, CEO of Unshackled U and Christian Life Coach, told Joy in Our Town host Elizabeth Hamilton that “Black Lives Matter” is a cry.

“It’s not that other lives don’t matter,” she said, “but that we need to be heard.” They want others to listen to them. Sometimes it takes a shouting out to get attention— “Please Listen!”

Brenda said that “God can break through the hatred, the misunderstanding. All lives matter to God. He created us in His image. He wants us to love each other.

“You can’t go wrong in loving,” she said.
